Purpose and scope

These Terms of Engagement record the standard terms on which Bird & Yang provides immigration consulting and visa support services. They should be read together with any written agreement, service proposal, fee estimate, Immigration New Zealand fee information, and written scope we agree with you.

New Zealand immigration advice may only be provided by a licensed immigration adviser, a New Zealand lawyer, or another person who is exempt from licensing. Where regulated immigration advice is provided, it will be provided only by a person legally authorized to provide that advice.

Services we may provide

- initial pathway assessment and general visa strategy support;
- visa application preparation support and document checklists;
- relationship, employment, study, visitor, business, investment, or other immigration evidence support within the agreed scope;
- communication support with Immigration New Zealand where authorized;
- timeline, process, and document management support.

No guarantee of outcome

Immigration decisions are made by Immigration New Zealand or another relevant authority. We do not guarantee that any visa, waiver, variation, accreditation, job check, appeal, reconsideration, or other immigration outcome will be approved.

Timeframes are also controlled by the relevant authority and may be affected by policy, workload, verification checks, requests for further information, health, character, English language, funds, employment, relationship, or other requirements.

Client responsibilities

You must provide complete, accurate, genuine, and current information and documents. You must not provide false, misleading, altered, or incomplete documents. You must promptly tell us about any change in circumstances, including health, character, relationship, employment, address, travel, family, funds, or immigration status.

You remain responsible for the accuracy of all forms, declarations, supporting information, and instructions given to us or any authority.

Fees and disbursements

Our professional fees, Immigration New Zealand fees, translation costs, medical costs, police certificates, courier fees, document certification, and other likely disbursements will be set out in our written scope or fee estimate where applicable.

Unless otherwise agreed, government fees and third-party costs are payable by you. Refunds of government or third-party fees are governed by the relevant authority or provider.

Confidentiality and privacy

Immigration matters involve sensitive personal information. We will treat information confidentially and handle personal information in accordance with privacy obligations and applicable professional requirements.

We may need to share information with Immigration New Zealand, overseas authorities, translators, medical professionals, education providers, employers, recruitment parties, legal advisers, or other approved third parties where authorized or reasonably required for the agreed services.

Limits of service

Unless expressly agreed in writing, we do not provide legal representation in courts, judicial review, employment law advice, tax advice, financial advice, or services outside the agreed scope. If a matter requires legal advice, we may refer you to B&Y Legal or another appropriate lawyer under separate terms.

Complaints and professional standards

Where services are provided by a licensed immigration adviser, the adviser must comply with the Licensed Immigration Advisers Code of Conduct. We will provide any required licensing, complaint, and written agreement information in accordance with applicable requirements.

Termination

Either party may terminate the engagement by written notice. We may also stop acting if information is incomplete, inaccurate, misleading, not provided on time, or if there is a conflict, non-payment, illegality, or another professional reason. Termination does not affect accrued fees, confidentiality, privacy, record-keeping, or liability provisions.

Acceptance

By signing below, the client confirms that they have read, understood, and accepted these Terms of Engagement for Immigration Consulting Services. If signing for a company, trust, partnership, organization, or another person, the signatory confirms that they have authority to do so.
